SENATOR HAS ASSOCIATION OF NATIONS SCHEME

McCumber Asks Republicans To Make Pledge Good

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, March 14.—In the course of the debate on the Pacific Treaty in the Senate today, Senator McCumber quoting the plank in the Republican Presidential platform urging the establishment of an association of nations for world peace, submitted a draft measure providing for the conclusion of treaties for the formation of such an association, to include Great Britain, The United States, Italy, Germany, Austria, Spain, Japan and Russia, who would have to agree to consult one another on all issues threatening wars and fix a period of six months for investigation when hostilities were threatened.

Senator McCumber described the Four-Power Treaty as simply a limited association of nations for the maintenance of peace in the Pacific and said that he proposed to extend it.

Washington, March 14.—It now transpires that Senator McCumber included France, but not Belgium, in the list of countries to be admitted to his proposed association of nations.

It is presumed in official circles that Senator McCumber intended to include only the Great Powers, or those with extensive Colonial possessions.

(China Press Service)

Washington, March 14.—Johnson of California, continuing his speech on the Treaty principally attacked the declarations that the Quadruple Treaty's chief benefit was the abrogation of the Anglo Japanese Alliance.

He said that if solemn Anglo-Japanese assurances were believable, the alliance did not menace the United States.

If they are not believable, the United States should not enter partnership with them.

He said that the chief difference of the treaty with the League of Nations was that the former bore the Republican label, and the latter the Democratic.

Senator Lenroot defending the treaty suggested that President Harding might withdraw the other treaties from the Senate if the Four Power Pact was not ratified, and then refer them all to the people.

British Women's Ass'n In First Annual Meeting; Great Progress Reported

A Thousand Members Enrolled, A Big Accomplishment Behind It, Young Local Foreign Women's Organisation Reports Big Successes

The remarkable growth of the British Women's Association in the short year of its life was told yesterday in the report of the Chairman, Mrs. B. M. Gull, read yesterday evening at the first annual meeting of the association held at the Lyceum theater. A thousand members are now enrolled. A number of special sections have been firmly established. The Association is financially sound and is planning advisedly for an expansion such as will set a record for foreign women's activities in the Far East.

A new committee was selected at the meeting, Mrs. E. P. Graham Barrow, Mrs. M. Beckingsdale, Mrs. W. B. Billingshurst, Mrs. J. Cromarty, Mrs. J. Darroch, Mrs. J. W. Dovey, Mrs. O. M. Green, Mrs. B. M. Gull, Mrs. Hilton Johnston, Mrs. D. MacGillivray, Mrs. G. Matheson, Mrs. E. H. McMichael, Mrs. S. B. Neill, Miss Patterson, Mrs. F. Peebles, Mrs. H. G. Simms, Mrs. C. J. F. Symons, and Mrs. T. E. Trueman, were elected.

After the accounts for the first year were considered and passed, the chairman, Mrs. B. M. Gull read the annual report as follows:

"Lady Fraser and ladies: The first chapter in the history of the British Women's Association has been brought to a close. It is but a few days over a year since with considerable flourish of trumpets, we gathered together under this very roof for the purpose of inaugurating the British Women's Association. Prior to that inauguration a few of us responsible for the idea of organising such an association at all had published a circular in which we embodied some suggestion of the ideals that were in our minds. The question I should like to put to you now is whether we have made any real progress towards the realisation of those ideals. I do not feel that there is much doubt as to the answer.

EXCEEDS EXPECTATIONS

"Thanks to the cordial manner in which the idea was received and thanks to the whole-hearted way in which British women have responded and co-operated in its development, I think I may boldly state, and afterwards prove by results, that the B.W.A. has far, far exceeded our most sanguine expectations. Here little more than one year old we find ourselves with a membership, a paid-up membership, mind you, of one thousand women. We find ourselves with a convenient and comfortable, albeit already much too small, pied-a-terre right in the heart of the Settlement, which we call our Headquarters. We find ourselves with no fewer than seven Sections representing divers interests, both recreational and educational in character, showing an active membership of 575. Best of all, we find ourselves—thanks to the ablest Honorary Treasurer that such an association ever had—having paid our own way, and being today in a condition of complete solvency. That in two words represents the concrete side of our first year's development.

"Now in regard to other realities, less tangible but not one whit less real. In our little preliminary leaflet we said that our object was friendship and the banding together of British women. We know that something like half the British women have banded together, that they have worked together and played together—with considerable success as I am going to show you. As to what we have achieved in the matter of friendship, of a wider friendly spirit among all classes of women in this community, it is for each one of us to say. In

"Astonished At His Own Moderation" He Tells Lords At Conclusion Of Scathing Speech; Sees Loss Of Prestige At Parley

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 14.—The House of Lords today was crowded and the galleries thronged with peeresses and commoners when Lord Curzon, in a voice shaking with indignation, said he thought that he, as Foreign Secretary, about to discuss the Eastern question at Paris, was the chief sufferer from Mr. Montagu's astonishing act but he was astounded to learn from Mr. Montagu's speech that he had connived at this injury to public interests.

He declared that Mr. Montagu had endeavored to establish an amazing proposition by a public reference to a private conversation and correspondence which was unparalleled in the history of Cabinet proceedings.

Lord Curzon proceeded to say that on March 4, the members of the Cabinet had received the Indian Government's telegram asking for permission for its publication. He said that he had not deemed it possible that Mr. Montagu would sanction publication of the telegram without reference to the Cabinet meeting which was to be held on March 6.

He was so dumbfounded when Mr. Montagu in the course of a few seconds' private conversation said that he had authorised its publication that he (Lord Curzon) closed the conversation and returned to his seat.

NO TIME TO STOP IT

Lord Curzon said that if Mr. Montagu had given the slightest hint that there would be time to prevent publication of the telegram he would have brought the matter before the Cabinet but he assumed that publication had already occurred. In India feeling was profoundly disturbed and dismayed at Mr. Montagu's action. He wrote Mr. Montagu a letter marked "private," deploring his action and protesting against any repetition.

Lord Curzon declared that the letter was equally confidential as scores of letters which Mr. Montagu had written him, the character of which he would not follow Mr. Montagu's action by attempting to describe publicly. Mr. Montagu had not favored him with a reply but instead had vilified before his constituents a colleague whose advice he had constantly solicited and received in no unstinted measure. He was endeavoring to shift some of the responsibility of his lamentable indiscretion on to his (Lord Curzon's) shoulders.

After referring to the "intolerable and unprecendented action" of a former Cabinet Minister in publicly reading and distorting a letter written under the seal of confidence, Lord Curzon read the real letter, a copy of which he had received from Mr. Montagu:

"Dear Montagu:—I much deplore that you should have thought right to authorise the publication of the telegram, even as amended. Had I, when Viceroy, ventured to make a public pronouncement in India about the foreign policy of the Government in Europe, I should certainly have been recalled. As it was, I was once rebuked for making a casual reference in a speech. I consulted Chamberlain this morning, in the absence of the Prime Minister, and he entirely shared my view, but it is now too late.

"That I should be asked to go to a conference in Paris while a subordinate branch of the British Government, six thousand miles away, dictates to the British Government what line it thinks I ought to pursue in Thrace, seems to me quite intolerable, but the part India has sought to play, or has been allowed to play in this series of events passes my comprehension.

DANGEROUS, HE SAYS

"Moreover it is of very dangerous import, for, if the Government of India, because it rules a large body of Moslems, is entitled to express and publish views about what we do in Smyrna and Thrace, why not equally in Egypt, the Soudan, Palestine, Arabia, the Malay Peninsula or any other part of the Moslem world? Is Indian opinion always to be the final court of Moslem appeal?

"I hope this will be the last of these unfortunate pronouncements, but if any other is ever contemplated, I trust that at least you will give me an opportunity of expressing my opinion in the Cabinet, before sanction is given.

"Yours ever,

"Curzon."

Lord Curzon pointed out that instead of, as Mr. Montagu had alleged, requesting Mr. Montagu in future to discuss such independent action with him (Lord Curzon) without submitting it to the Cabinet, he had said precisely the reverse. He merely asked to be given an opportunity of expressing his opinion prior to the Cabinet meeting. Such were the facts of the case.

"They leave me still quite unable to determine," Lord Curzon added, "whether the public or private conduct of the former Secretary for India is the more inexplicable and surprising. In using these adjectives, I am astonished at my own moderation."

MUKDEN CHIEF TO ISSUE MANIFESTO ON WU'S RETURN

Chang Tso-lin Will Announce Unification Plans Made With Sun Yat-sen

A lengthy manifesto setting forth the plans of the unification of China is expected to be issued by Chang Tso-lin, the warlord of Fengtien, after the return to Canton of Dr. C. C. Wu, Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs, who recently paid a visit to Mukden in his official capacity, according to the Tah Dong News Bureau.

The declaration is expected to discuss the general conditions of the nation both from the legal point of view and in terms of the facts. While not voicing any opposition against Wu Pei-fu, the Chihli militarist, Chang will express disappointment over the obstruction caused by Wu in working for selfish ends.

An understanding is said to have been reached between Chang and Dr. Sun Yat-sen through the exchange of visits made by Dr. C. C. Wu and Chang's agents.

WHEAT IS KING OF EXPORTS OF FOOD FROM U.S.

Tops List At 550 Millions While Cotton Is Second With 534 Millions

(China Press Service)

Washington, March 14.—Wheat was the king of American agricultural exports in 1921, says the Department of Agriculture's report. More wheat was exported than in any previous year. The values of the principal agricultural exportations in millions of dollars are: wheat and flour, 550; cotton 534; pork and products 246; leaf tobacco, 205; sugar 49; cotton seed oil, 25; and rice 21.

The Department reported that exports of agricultural products in 1921 had increased 27 percent in quantity over 1920 but had decreased 30 percent in value.

HUNAN BETWEEN TWO SMOLDERING MILITARY FIRES

Both Wu Pei-fu And Sun Yat-sen Contend For Advantage

(China Press Correspondence)

Hankow, March 13.—Save some willfully inspired rumors regarding demonstrations of hostilities in the Hunan region, the political situation in the central provinces remains materially unchanged. There in Changsha, Chao Heng-ti still remains the figure head, and under him several minor groups of scheming politicians and militarists are keeping the pot of muddled politics boiling on as usual.

Chao Heng-ti's attitude, as it has been heretofore, is to keep his province, Hunan, in a state of equilibrium by virtue of his coaxing ability. There in the south, Dr. Sun Yat-sen, President of the Canton republic, is trumpeting his well-known campaign against Peking, while on the northern side of Hunan, Wu Pei-fu, Chao Heng-ti's old friend and now his ward, is constantly reminding Chao Heng-ti of the many sweet promises he has made to him from time to time that he would keep his allegiance to Wu-Pei-fu at any cost.

PURPOSE OBSCURE

Whether Chao is bolstering up Wu Pei-fu or Sun Yat-sen is not discernible, but one thing is certain, namely, neither Wu Pei-fu nor Sun Yat-sen has any trust in him. Wu Pei-fu has advanced his Chihli troops from Yochow to Changsha under the pretext of helping Chao to stem the tide of Dr. Sun Yat-sen's propaganda. Chao Heng-ti knows that Wu Pei-fu is treating Hunan as one of his protectorates, and being afraid that northern influence may re-enter Hunan by this time, he has requested General Wu to have his men withdrawn to Yochow.

Wu Pei-fu insists on having his troops remain in the background of Changsha so that Chao may not become a turncoat. Upon his request being refused by General Wu Pei-fu, Chao worked out some display of public opinion against this step of Wu by asking several organisations at Changsha to protest against the matter, as this concerns the future destiny of Hunan. This was done without effect by the organisations, and thus Hunan has a severe wolf at its door from the northern side.

ASK RIGHT OF WAY

Now Canton has been unremittingly asking for the right of way to lead its expeditionary forces through Hunan in their march northward. Again a great many of Hunan's militarists have been secretly leagued up with Dr. Sun Yat-sen's men, who are aspiring for ascendency in Hunan. To avoid displeasing both, Chao has declared neutrality in Hunan, but even this will in time fail to keep the southerners from Hunan territory.

How Chao Heng-ti will eventually emerge from the present dilemma is a question of much speculation, but is by no means easy to forecast. His mind is too weak to form a determination, and his province is too stragetically located for his wit to come into play. He is now a sort of suspension bridge across which northern and southern ambitions daily seek to travel to each other's end. And when the joints at both ends loosen, this suspension bridge will fall into the water without remedy Such is the general impression of Chao Heng-ti's position at this center.

PARK UNION BANK WILL LIQUIDATE; SLUMP BLAMED

No Details Of Action Available At Branch Here

(Reuter's Service)

New York, March 14.—The Park Union Bank has decided to liquidate. The reason is not given, but it is assumed that trade conditions in the Far East do not justify the continuance of business.

No details regarding the proposed liquidation of the Park-Union Foreign Banking Corporation could be given out for publication by officials of the branch here yesterday, it being stated that they were awaiting word from the home offices. It is presumed, however, that the branches will continue to function until all business has been worked out.

The Park-Union Foreign Banking Corporation opened up in Shanghai about two years ago. It was organised for operation in the Far East by the Park National Bank of New York and the Union Bank of Canada. These two banking concerns are among the largest in America and so the announced liquidation of the Park-Union organisation is merely taken to mean that the home banks have decided to abandon, for the time being at least, the Far Eastern field.

ARMED ROBBERS TAKE ANOTHER POLICE VICTIM

Chinese Constable Killed While Trying To Make Arrest In Wayside

Armed robbers snuffed out the life of another Chinese policeman in the execution of his duty last night—the second tragedy of its kind within the past four days.

The shooting occurred on Tongshan Road, in the Wayside District, the same district in which C.P.C. 438 was killed by an armed bandit last Monday night. The policeman's death followed the unsuccessful attempt of four men to hold up premises at 168 Tongshan Road. In their attack on the place the robbers fired several shots, which attracted the constable's attention and he hurried toward the scene and gave chase. As he was about to arrest one of the men another of the gang came up behind him and shot him in the back.

The wounded man was hurried to St. Luke's Hospital and died shortly after arriving there. No arrests were made but the police are hopeful of rounding up part of the gang, who are believed to be Ningpo men, today.

STRIKE NEWS FROM RAND READS LIKE REAL WAR

"Bombardment," "Artillery," "Airplanes," "Tanks"

"INFANTRY" BUSY

"Sniping" Continues; "Refugees" Flock To Joburg

(Reuter's Service)

Pretoria, March 14.—While sniping continues in various quarters, interest now centers on Fordsburg. Thousands of women and children have moved out of the district in consequence of the notices dropped from aeroplanes, but a number of revolutionaries are apparently determined to fight.

The remaining policemen who were imprisoned there have been released.

The Government and Military authorities have carefully studied the situation at Fordsburg with a view to taking the best and most effective action to clear up the storm center.

Johannesburg, March 14.—The bombardment of Fordsburg with machine-guns, tanks and artillery is now proceeding.

Later.—Fordsburg has surrendered after a bombardment lasting 70 minutes. The Infantry are now clearing up the streets.

Johannesburg, March 14.—Aeroplanes today opened operations at Fordsburg, about a dozen miles west of Johannesburg, dropping notices ordering the evacuation of these positions by eleven o'clock this morning.

Last night was the most disturbing so far experienced, there being sniping in the very heart of the city and also heavy firing in the eastern suburb of Jeppestown. All the other Reef sectors have been cleared up.

The aforementioned firing was probably the final burst of revolutionary activity. The satisfactory progress of the Government operations is indicated in the communique issued last night, showing that the troops have occupied the extensive East Rand Proprietary Mines and captured 158 revolutionaries.

The encircling movement is now complete in all the affected areas except the outlying portions of Johannesburg itself. Recruiting has stopped, ample reserves being available.

Natives report that many revolutionaries were killed in Sunday's bombing raid. Eighty-six captured policemen have been released.

FUNERAL TODAY FOR C.P.C. SLAIN BY ARMED THUG

Funeral services will be held today for Chinese Police Constable 438, Hu Wei-chou, who was shot to death by an armed robber whom he had stopped and was questioning in the Wayside District Monday night.

The funeral cortege will leave the Fearon Road Mortuary at 2:30 p.m. and will proceed along Fearon, Range, Haining, Honan, Nanking, Bubbling Well and Yates Roads, proceeding then into Frenchtown and to the Chihli Guild. The procession is expected to be an unusually large one and many of the higher officials of the force will march in tribute to the slain servant of the Municipality, tribute to whose bravery and conscientious fulfillment of duty is paid by the Commissioner of Police in orders.

Constable Hu Wei-chou joined the force on May 15, 1919 and was attached to Wayside Station at the time of his death. He was promoted to be a third class constable on May 1 of last year.

Britain's Trade Figures Improve

(Reuter's Service)

London, March 14.—The Board of Trade returns for February show that exports totalled £58,250,000 and imports £69,250,000 showing decreases of nearly £5,000,000 and £7,000,000 respectively as compared with January.

Re-exports totalled £10,000,000 showing an increase of £2,000,000 as compared with February 1921.

FARCICAL START MADE OF CONFAB ON CHINA ISSUES

Twenty-seven Attend First Formal Session Of Parley On National Affairs

A free for all verbal combat featured the first session of the Conference on National Affairs held yesterday at the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce. Only 27 delegates attended the initial session. The conference was called as the result of a resolution passed at the joint conference of the Chambers of Commerce and Educational Associations in session in Shanghai last October. The solution of national problems was the aim of the conference. All recognised commercial, educational, agricultural and social bodies are supposed to send delegates to the conference.

When the last note of the inaugural music died away, a protesting voice was raised by Dr. F. C. Tong, representing the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce at Shanghai, against the calling of the formal meeting yesterday. He stated that the opening was not in order, because neither the name of the conference nor the constitution has been adopted. He desired an explanation for the irregular procedure.

In reply, Mr. Chang Yi-ling, the moving spirit of the conference, pointed out that it was Dr. Tong who suggested at the second informal meeting that the opening day be set on March 15. Mr. Chang expressed surprise that Dr. Tong should be opposed to a scheme of which he himself was the author.

No less than six persons asked for floor recognition after Mr. Chang's remarks. There was considerable commotion among the delegates. Chang's stand was endorsed by Hau Yin and the meeting proceeded to elect its chairman, which honor fell upon Dr. Huang Yen-pei, Vice-president of the Kiangsu Educational Association.

Dr. Huang gave a brief history of the organisation of the conference and appealed for co-operation among the delegates. In reply to Dr. Tong, he said the name of the conference had been fixed sometime ago as the Conference on National Affairs after considerable discussion. Now that a number of delegates have travelled from distant provinces to participate in the comfab, it was not fair for them to wait indefinitely. Moreover, a conference of this nature was not dependent upon quantity, he said. One should remember that only 25 participated in the First National Convention of the United States of America.

Only eight provinces are sending delegates to the conference. It is significant that none of the South provinces are represented.

PURIM BALL AT ASTOR HOUSE IS COLORFUL AFFAIR

Proceeds Realised Are $4,000 To Be Devoted To Hebrew Relief Society

An immense throng danced through the evening and enjoyed the varied colorful features that were included in the program of the Purim fancy dress ball at the Astor House last night. Approximately $4,000 was realised from the proceeds of the affair which will be devoted to the Shanghai Hebrew Relief Society.

Of exceptional interest was the Ukraine dance which was given by Mr. and Mrs. Lantzov. Songs by Miss Kovalova were received with rounds of applause, as were selections given by Mr. Cody of the Astor House orchestra and by Miss B. Jouravel. Another pleasing feature were the classical dances of Mr. and Mrs. Damaratsky.

A novel feature that was introduced into the charming decorative scheme was the Japanese tea house where tea was served and booths for fortune telling were conducted. Particular credit for the great success of the affair is due to Mesdames Toeg, Hirsch, Finkelstein and Marco.

THE U. S. turf season, new well under way in Southern cities, has introduced many women as owners of high-bred horses. Since the early 80s, when the famous "Jersey Lily" Langtry owned, raced and bred a string of thoroughbreds, there has always been a number of the gentler sex directly interested in the "Sport of Kings." Among the prominent New York women who are active at the various tracks are: Mrs. Payne Whitney, Mrs. E. B. Cassatt, Mrs. George W. Loft and Mrs. Robert L. Gerry. Mrs. C. C. Rumsey hails from Idaho.

Official Text Of The "Open Door" Pact Agreed Upon At Washington Conference

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Feb. 4.—The following is the official text of the two treaties regarding China, approved today by the arms conference, the one embodying the Root four points for the integrity of China and the open door reads:

The United States of America, Belgium, the British Empire, China, France, Italy, Japan, The Netherlands and Portugal desiring to adopt a policy designed to stabilise conditions in the Far East, to safeguard the rights and interests of China, and to promote intercourse between China and the other Powers upon the basis of equality of opportunity have resolved to conclude a treaty for that purpose and to that end have appointed as their respective plenipotentiaries:

Who, having communicated to each other their full powers, found to be in good and due form, have agreed as follows:

ARTICLE I.

The contracting Powers, other than China, agree:

1.—To respect the sovereignty, the independence, and the territorial and administrative integrity of China.

2.—To provide the fullest and most unembarrassed opportunity to China to develop and maintain for herself an effective and stable Government.

3.—To use their influence for the purpose of effectually establishing and maintaining the principle of equal opportunity for the commerce and industry of all nations throughout the territory of China.

4.—To refrain from taking advantage of conditions in China in order to seek special rights or privileges which would abridge the rights of subjects or citizens of friendly States, and from countenancing action inimical to the security of such States.

ARTICLE II.

The contracting powers agree not to enter into any treaty, agreement, arrangement or understanding, either with one another, or, individually or collectively, with any power or powers, which would infringe or impair the principles stated in Article I.

ARTICLE III.

With a view to applying more effectually the principles of the open door or equality of opportunity in China for the trade and industry of all nations, the contracting powers, other than China, agree they will not seek, nor support their respective nations in seeking:

(A) Any arrangement which might purport to establish in favor of their interests any general superiority of rights with respect to commercial or economic development in any designated region in China.

(B) Any such monopoly or preference as would deprive the nationals of any other power of the right of undertaking any legitimate trade or industry in China, or of participating with the Chinese Government, or with any local authority, in any category of public enterprise, or which by reason of its scope, duration or geographical extent is calculated to frustrate the practical application of the principle of equal opportunity.

It is understood that the foregoing stipulations of this article are not to be so construed as to prohibit the acquisition of such properties or rights as may be necessary to the conduct of a particular commercial, industrial or financial undertaking or to the encouragement of invention and research.

China undertakes to be guided by the principles stated in the foregoing stipulations of this article in dealing with applications for economic rights and privileges from Governments and nationals of all foreign countries, whether parties to the present treaty or not.

ARTICLE IV.

The contracting powers agree not to support any agreements by their respective nationals with each other, designed to create spheres of influence or to provide for the enjoyment of mutually exclusive opportunities in designated parts of Chinese territory.

ARTICLE V

China agrees that, throughout the whole of the railways in China, she will not exercise or permit unfair discriminations of any kind. In particular there shall be no discrimination whatever, direct or indirect, in respect of charges or of facilities on the ground of the nationality of passengers or the countries from which or to which they are proceeding, or the origin or ownership of goods or the country from which or to which they are consigned, or the nationality or ownership of the ship or other means of conveying such passengers or goods before or after their transport on the Chinese railways.

The contracting powers, other than China, assume a corresponding obligation in respect of any of the aforesaid railways over which they or their nationals are in a position to exercise any control in virtue of any concession, special agreement or otherwise.

ARTICLE VI

The contracting parties, other than China, agree fully to respect China's rights as a neutral in time of war, to which China is not a party; and China declares that when she is a neutral she will observe the obligations of neutrality.

ARTICLE VII

The contracting Powers agree that, whenever a situation arises which, in the opinion of any one of them, involves the application of the stipulations of the present treaty, and renders desirable discussion of such application, there shall be full and frank communication between the contracting Powers concerned.

ARTICLE VIII

Powers not signatory to the present Treaty which have governments recognised by the signatory Powers and which have treaty relations with China shall be invited to adhere to the present Treaty. To this end the Government of the United States will make the necessary communications to non-signatory Powers and will inform the contracting Powers of the replies received. Adherence by any Power shall become effective on receipt of notice thereof by the Government of the United States.

ARTICLE IX

The present treaty shall be ratified by the contracting Powers in accordance with their respective constitutional methods and shall take effect on the date of the deposit of all the ratifications, which shall take place at Washington as soon as possible. The Government of the United States will transmit to the other contracting Powers a certified copy of the process verbal of the deposit of ratifications.

The present treaty, of which the English and French texts are both authentic, shall remain deposited in the archives of the Government of the United States, and duly certified copies thereof shall be transmitted by that Government to the other contracting Powers.

In faith whereof the above-named plenipotentiaries have signed the present Treaty.

Done at the City of Washington, the sixth day of February, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-two.

The following resolution was adopted as a supplement to the general Far Eastern Treaty.

"The United States of America, Belgium, the British Empire, China, France, Italy, Japan, the Netherlands and Portugal:

Resolve, That there shall be established in China a board of reference to which any questions arising in connection with the execution of the foresaid articles may be referred for investigation and report.

The special conference, provided in Article II. of the treaty to be signed at Washington on Feb. 6, 1922, with reference to the Chinese customs tariff, shall formulate for the approval of the powers concerned a detailed plan for the constitution of the board.

SPRAINED ANKLE DOES NOT DETER DOROTHY QUAINT

Pardon, Dearie, 'James' Of Course, But The Name Of The Company Looks Good There

There came near not being any performance of the Quaints last night and at that the bill had to be changed at the last minute owing to an accident that might have cost Miss Dorothy James, prima donna of the company, her life. As it was, she escaped with a sprained ankle and many bruises when her ricsha was hit by a tram on the Garden Bridge yesterday afternoon.

But she was game, was Dorothy, and while she could not take the principal part as planned, she told the other members of the company that it was her ankle that was sprained, not her voice demanding that she be allowed to take part in the performance. She limped on at intervals, sang the solo part in the good night song, and really you know, the sprained ankle—the idea of it at least lent an added touch of pathos to her songs.

And that's that, so far as the ankle goes.

As for the remainder of the performance, it was a spur of the moment melange of numbers that have made the name Quaint stand for something different in Far Eastern amusement circles. Miss Jessie Hitter was funnier than usual, if that were possible, and her slavey imitation not only brought down the house but made some of the audience threaten to burst a waistcoat seam, such paroxysms of laughter greeted her. That alone was worth the price of admission. Then she scored again as the Catalan dame sent to give the black spot to the peaceful householder by the name of Jones.

But that is getting ahead of the story, for the Jones act was next to the end of the bill, and the "in betweens" included the Jazz orchestra with Guy Fane at the drummer, playing the pots and pans in perfect time; no, not exactly time—timber—yes that's the word, perfect timber, the timber that drumsticks are made of in this case. Mavis French sang like her namesake and received her usual encores.

Salisbury was not so Quaint as sometimes. For one thing he had a cold that took some of the spontaneity out of his voice and—well one can't always be at one's best, can he? Hugh Bayley tripped the light fantastic, scored heavily in two songs and was the warm whiz at the piano while Harold Farrar and Ivan Campbell, vocalists, contributed markedly to a performance whose excellence would never let the uninitiated have suspected that it was put on at a moment's notice unless Salisbury had told them to scrap their programs and listen to something different, which it was. A new bill is announced for tonight and will be worth seeing as is every bill the Quaints put on.

Compradore's Chop Held In Court As Responsible Mark

The responsibility of a compradore to a commercial company in Shanghai was fairly well defined yesterday in the Mixed Court after the hearing of the claim of Messrs. A. F. Thane and Co against Chang Jang-kween for G.$28,642.62 and $844 on the charge that these amounts had been lost through various hardware, sundry and piece goods contracts, and that the compradore had refused to make good the loss. The Court decided that the compradore was responsible to an extent because he or his agents had chopped the contracts. The saving point of law for the compradore, according to the decision was that the company had not given the compradore all of the assistance possible in the collection of debts. The judgment was granted for Tls. 11,586.67 and $13,867.62. American Assessor Jacobs and Magistrate Kwan heard the case, which was presented for the claimants by Messrs. Fleming, Davies and Bryan, and defended by Messrs. Fessenden and Holcomb.

The Pneumonia Month.

March is a typical pneumonia month and usually gives a high rate of mortality for the disease. After a long and hard winter, the system loses much of its resistance and people grow careless. When every cold, no matter how slight, is given prompt and intelligent attention, there is much less danger of pneumonia. It should be borne in mind that pneumonia is a germ disease and breeds in the throat. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is an expectorant and cleans out the germ ladened mucus and not only cures a cold but prevents its resulting in pneumonia. It is pleasant to take. Children take it willingly.

$400,000 Action Against Compradore Goes To French Court

A transfer of litigation from the International Mixed Court to the French Consular Court occurred yesterday in the case of Kyien Ying-tsho, compradore of the National Commercial Tobacco Company who is accused of sending $400,000 worth of goods to a hong in Singapore without payment to the tobacco company. The International Mixed Court action was automatically withdrawn when the compradore surrendered himself to the French Court and proved French citizenship.

Opium Sellers Heavily Fined

Fines of $200 and $100 respectively were assessed by the Mixed Court yesterday in the case of two Chinese charged with keeping opium for sale in a place on Honan Road. Some 80 pounds of opium were seized in the raid, which was conducted by Detective Sergeants Yorke and McDermott, of Central station.

TRIES FIRST CASE

Mr. N. E. Lurton, who recently resigned the post of United States Marshal to enter law practise here, tried his first case in the Mixed Court yesterday. Mr. Lurton appeared to apply for a reduction of sentence in the case of a Chinese given two months for larceny. Mr. R. C. Faithful opposed the motion on behalf of the police and the court sustained the objection, holding that there was insufficient evidence to reduce the sentence.

Stockholm, Feb. 18.—The late Christine Nilsson, or Countess Case de Mirandi, famous Swedish opera singer, called by many the "second Swedish nightingale," left an estate in England valued at £120,000. This is disclosed by her will which, according to Stockholm papers, has just been opened in London.

The value of her Swedish estate, said to be of considerable size, is not yet known. The Swedish press, however, asserts that estimates of her wealth published in many foreign papers placing her fortune at $15,000,000, were grossly exaggerated. They add that she was noted in life for her great-hearted generosity and that the total of her gifts are known to have amounted to a large fortune.

Of her English estate, the Countess bequeathed £3,000 to the Royal Musical Academy of Stockholm, and £2,000 to the Conservatory of Music of Paris, both to be used as funds for scholarships. The will includes legacies of various amounts totalling £17,000 to various friends.

The remainder of the English estate is left to the singer's step-daughter, Countess Rose Case de Miranda. Her objects of art, paintings, etc., the singer left to four Swedish museums.

The delay in opening the singer's will is said to have been occasioned by the fact that Christine Nilsson was a French citizen.

It was reported at the time of Miss Nilsson's death that Mrs. George F. Murray, of Lynn, Mass., wife of an employe of the General Electric Company there, claimed to be the daughter of the Swedish singer and that she might contest Miss Nilsson's will.

COOLIE KILLED

A coolie died in St. Luke's hospital Tuesday night as the result of a hand-to-hand fight between cargo coolies on Tongshan Road earlier in the day. The man believed to be responsible for his death was arrested and will appear in the Mixed Court. The fight resulted from a quarrel over the carrying of cargo from the Nanyang Brothers Tobacco factory on Broadway.

Ningpo 'Y' Plans $28,000 Campaign

(China Press Service)

Ningpo, March, 3.—The Y. M. C. A. has just launched its campaign for funds for a new building. The goal to be sought for locally is $28,000, the building fund to have $20,000, of this and the remainder of $8,000, to be the budget of running expenses for the year The campaign has been very well organised and there is every hope of reaching the goal. Fifty-six groups have been organised, each group to be resposible for $500, thus the total reaching the figure desired.

The campaign started Wednesday evening with a banquet at the Y. M. C. A. temporary headquaters at which about fifty guests were present. The guest of honor was Dr. David Z. T. Yui, the people's delegate to the Washington conference. He was greeted with great enthusiasm. During the course of the banquet he made a speech setting forth the need and bneit of having such an organisation as the Y. M. C. A. in our midst. He also reviewed briefly the Washington Conference, touching especially upon the Shangtung question. He was listened to with the best of attention.

Dry Agents Now Want Rum Treaties

(China Press Service)

Washington, March 14.—Now that the treaties on disarmament and kindred topics are before the Senate which has begun to breathe easy, thinking it knew the worst, it remained for Prohibition Agent Hayes to advocate a new set of treaties, this time with Britain and Cuba to stop rum running from their possessions off America's Atlantic coast.

Mr. Hayes proposition simmers down in the final analysis to placing all rum runners in the category of pirates. All that he has omitted is the penalty. Few speedboats have yardarms so that hanging might be difficult, but a waggish member of Congress whose aid was solicited, advocated that the "pirates" be compelled to drink up their cargo.

Others are objecting that this, in view of the character of the rum that they run, would be a "cruel and unusual punishment," worse than death and therefore unconstitutional.

Champion Drops Rocky Kansas For Nine Count And Challenger Wilts

Madison Square Garden, New York, Feb. 11.—One punch saved the lightweight championship of the world for Benny Leonard in his fifteen-round championship bout against Rocky Kansas of Buffalo in the Madison Square Garden last night.

That is a rather startling statement in view of the fact that Rocky stayed fifteen rounds with the dazzling champion.

It is even more amazing when it is considered that there were many blows struck in the encounter and that Rocky did his share in landing them.

There is always a turning point, however, and this time it came in the eleventh round when all of Leonard's championship qualities asserted themselves and he floored Kansas with one deft blow.

That was the punch of the bout. It was a left hook. It came like a streak of lightning in the night. Kansas did not expect it. The crowd did not expect it.

Down went Kansas with a crash and all his championship hopes crashed with him. In a twinkling he was changed from a madly rushing foe to a dazed and bleary-eyed bit of human granite that had been blown up by a highly powerful explosive.

HE TOOK NINE COUNT

Nine seconds Kansas took and they were nine precious seconds to him. He gained his feet a beaten man. No longer was Leonard a champion, fighting with all his might and main to retain his prized title.

Uneasy lies the head that wears the crown, they say, and Leonard will have plenty of cause to lie awake nights thinking of what happened prior to the time that he gauged that blow with deadly precision.

Leonard got a late start they say. Maybe so; maybe it was the process of getting down to weight that hurt him. Anyhow in those early rounds it did not look like Leonard the master who had thrilled so many crowds.

Where's the Leonard skill, they were asking early in the bout. For Leonard was hit not only once or twice, but many times. The strangest part of it was that the champion took them in the body.

It would be hard to describe the silence that descended on the crowd in those early rounds. Was another champion slipping?

The second and fourth rounds were very bad ones for a champion to experience. The Leonard smile was not flashing in those sessions. The rock in the sea of pugilism upon which many an ambitious pugilist has been wrecked was menacing a shining lightweight crown. The human rock was taking the Leonard blows and not even a sliver was being chipped off. With the coming of the fourth session Leonard's hair was ruffled and he looked mighty serious. He seemed to be fighting hard for his title.

LOOKS FOR OPENING

Slowly, however, the title-holder began working himself out in front. There were bad rounds for him after the first third of the journey, but Leonard seemed to be working toward one thing—the blow that would settle matters—the punch that would finish the usurper.

Always the bank-hand punch hovered as a menace over Leonard. Time after time Rocky back-swiped the champion.

It was not a full-fledged back-swipe, such as the ones with which Rocky has knocked more than one opponent tumbling into oblivion, but it was tantalising.

It was from the time that Leonard dropped Kansas in the eleventh that the vast difference in the pace was revealed.

From this time on it was momentarily expected that Kansas would take the little ten-second nap.

He was groggy from then on almost to the finish, flickering up in the thirteenth, but stumbling and faltering again throughout the fourteenth and fifteenth.

It was not because Kansas did not dare that he lost. As he was informed before he left his corner in the first round he had everything to win and nothing to lose and this was his battle cry that carried him through until that cruel wallop in the eleventh.

There is no doubt that Kansas proved a boxing enigma to Leonard in those early rounds, but Leonard solved the puzzle in real championship fashion. When the opportunity came, Leonard's class came to the fore.

Only a second was necessary, but when it came it opened up a chance for a master stroke that was followed by an attack that over-shadowed all of Rocky's persistency and aggressiveness and rock-bound defense.

BAER SAYS BUGS Baer: FOWLER HAD A GREAT CAREER

Gink Fell So Much That He Made Humpty Dumpty Look Like A Champ

Dear at any:

What do you mean by boosting that water-soared, soap-frightened, milk-bottle-thief Gink Fowler?

Why not tell the world what Placid-Faced Pete, the Polish Panic, did to him at the extra session of the Sausage Stuffers' Union in Tenefly, N. J.

Panic panicked Gink. He had Fowler out so long that mortification set in.

Besides that you know that Roughtown had no depot because a kid put wheels under it and took it for an express wagon.

THE VIRGINIA JUDGE.

This is a setback for us. We thought that Gink Fowler was generally looked up to by Justice, which is supposed to be blind. But when the Virginia Judge puts on the high hat and freezes up, it looks as if we were being underrated by those famous Roughtown financial authorities, Badstreet's and Bumm's.

Now, you well know that the Polish or any other kind of allied panics never put Gink Fowler over the brightly painted hurdles. We remember the night that the Panic tried to stampede Roughtown but was swept away by an avalanche of poker chips.

The Panic was bug on poker. They were playing near the Roughtown graveyard when suddenly a ghost popped up and chased the Panic for a tour.

They stepped off with the Panic one jump ahead of Mr. Weejee. Went so fast that milestones looked like teeth in a fine tooth comb. Landed on the Lincoln Highway and straightened out for the Rockies. They were going leg for leg, foot for foot and heel for heel, straight through all the states that have barred Johnny Wilson.

The Panic wasted one look back at the ghooster who wasn't even breathing easy, much less hard. The California Special took a siding as the Panic stepped out with his legs going like knitting needles in war time.

They went chin and chin through the Rockies and finally looped out on the down trail for the coast. They had travelled 2,000 miles when the ghost stumbled.

The Panic looked back and said: "Whatta you trying to do? Make a misdeal out of this?"

This shows that the Panic was game. But he was only in season out Roughtown way. Out there they would slap a crocodile's face with his own tail.

Neither Roughtown nor the Kaiser would stand for any nonsense from America after the war. Roughtown has not yet decided to endorse the five-power treaty, but when they do, President Harding will smile for the first time since he read the election returns on November 4, 1919.

We've rough people out there, but we're sentimental. When everybody who lives in Roughtown is home during Old Home Week the rest of the world is honest.

Young Jake Schaefer In Fair Way To Equal Father's Fame With Cue

The late Jake Schaefer, famous billiardist, known as the "Wizard" and father of Balk-line billiards, said just before his death in Denver: "The name of Schaefer has always stood for high-class play in the billiard field. I prefer that my boy let the game alone, except as a pastime, unless he thinks that he can become a champion."

Young Jake has done just this. Today, he is the world's champion at 18.2 Balk-line billiards. Just recently he defeated Willie Hoppe for this title by a score of 500 to 327. This was the first time that Hoppe has been defeated in champion contests since 1912. At this tournament Schaefer established a world's record run with 396. He also established another record by shutting out Welker Cochran, 400 to 0.

LAWN BOWLERS ELECT OFFICERS IN ANNUAL MEET

At the annual meeting of the Shanghai Lawn Bowls Club held at Messrs. Maitland's offices Tuesday, Sir Evarard Fraser was elected President; Col. T. E. Trueman, vice-president; Mr. G. Dunlop, captain; Mr. W. A. Turnbull, honorary secretary, and W. D. Jaimie, treasurer. The general committee includes Messrs. F. A. Banham, Gavin Campbell, O. Crewe Read, H. Gater, and J. C. MacDougall. The balloting committee consists of the general committee and Messrs. C. M. Bain, D. M. Graham, F. A. Sampson, P. M. Scott, J. J. Sheridan, R. Simmons and A. J. Stokes.

Mr. O. Crewe Read, vice-president, presided at last night's meeting and called attention to the successful year recorded by the club. The membership now stands at 233. The club had won two of the three open championships. It was to be regretted that the club was not represented in the interport games against Hankow and Hongkong. Mr. Crewe declared that considerable more care would be necessary to put the No. 2 green into proper shape. The report showed a profit of $921.62 for the year.

Free Kick Abolished By Am'n Football Committee

After Touchdowns Teams Now Must Buck The Line For Points

(Special To The China Press)

New York, March 13.—The National Football Rules Committee has abolished the free try for goal after a touchdown. Hereafter the team scoring a touchdown may put the ball in play on its opponent's five-yard line and from the scrimmage try for a single point by any legal scoring play.

The telegram quoted above will have a bearing on American football almost as important as the adoption of the forward pass or of the change in rules which required that the distance to be gained must be ten yards in four downs instead of five yards in three as previously stipulated.

It also marks a sharp reversal of expert opinion as to the openness or closeness of the play. Whereas ten years ago rules were changed to "open up" the play, this latest change is expected to again tighten the game up, especially after touchdowns when with the free kick abolished, the team with the touchdown to its credit will certainly resort to heavy line bucking from their opponent's five yard line.

The change, it is believed was made to eliminate the possibility of games being won or lost on free kicks after touchdowns. Too often teams that have played evenly throughout four gruelling periods have been credited with a defeat merely because their opponent's star kicker happened to be better or more lucky than their own.

Under the new provision all around football will count at every stage of the game. Should the score be tied near the end of time, straight football may decide the game, instead of leaving one team at the mercy of an opponent's clever, and practically unobstructed kicking.

The free kick after a touchdown is one of the oldest of American football rules. Years ago it was required that the kick should be brought out on the field to a point in front of the spot at which the ball went over the end line, and as a result many of the free tries for the extra point were made with kicks diagonally across the field. The rule governing the kick was changed some few years ago however so that the try was made from directly in front of the center of the goal posts and the extra points were made easy for teams possessed of clever kickers. Now, if the telegram may be depended upon, the kick is abolished, and extra points after touchdowns may only be gained by hard earned legal scoring plays, in which all of the players participated.

British Women's Ass'n In First Annual Meeting

this respect my personal opinion is that it has not been an empty year.

SURVEYS PAST YEAR

"Now for my brief survey of the past very crowded twelve months. Every one of you will remember that amazing meeting at the British Consulate when, figuratively speaking, we expected women to attend in their tens and they turned up in their hundreds. You will also remember the inaugural meeting at the Lyceum theater which followed hard on its heels, when a splendid attendance was recorded and which in every sense gave the Association a fine send off. At that meeting you placed the fortunes of your Association in the hands of a dozen women who may be broadly described as representing at least five distinct interests in the community: the nursing sisterhood, the business women, the teachers, the missionaries and the social. Of these twelve, no less than nine of those you originally elected remain at the end of the year, Three, Mrs. Borrett, Mrs. Everall and Mrs. Rowland having been forced to resign for purely personal reasons, Mrs. Carton Stone, Mrs. Hilton-Johnson and Mrs Peebles were co-opted (under Article VI, clause 4 of the constitution) to fill their places up to the end of the association's year. Of the present original committee no fewer than ten have expressed their willingness to stand for re-election and that is in my opinion indication enough as to the healthy condition of the Association. (Can it any longer be said that women are incapable of pulling together?) The two retiring members of the committee are leaving for Europe almost immediately. There have been 39 meetings of the executive committee and I think the average attendance, busy women though most of us are, would bear comparison with any committee in the place. All this may sound a little like patting ourselves on the back, but not so. Every member of the Association has the right to learn all she desires of the working of the committee for the election of which she is primarily responsible.

THE LUCK OF THE B.W.A.

"Good luck has followed in the train of the Association from the word 'go.' In less than a month after its inauguration members found themselves luxuriously housed in the beautiful rooms of the old Chartered Bank on the Bund and did time permit I would like here to record the thanks that are due to Mr. Scott for having lent them to us as well as to that first energetic little H. Q. sub-Committee for having made them so habitable.

"Another piece of extraordinary good luck was the loan of Mr. and Mrs. Pearce's beautiful grounds for tennis and recreational purposes during some seven months of last year. About the same time our present excellent headquarters, with which I hope by now most of you are familiar, were arranged for on terms highly advantageous to the Association.

"From the general I will now pass on to the particulars and will touch on the social service and other aspects of the Association. Social service is an embracive term and needs no definition which might limit its operations. The channels through which it may be directed are as diverse as its aims. The whole ideal of the Association is social service, our very existence as an Association is based upon it and our headquarters may be held to form our first effort in that direction. It must not for a moment be thought that we relegate all our responsibilities in this connection to our Social Service Board and you will, I feel sure, agree with me that the following count as social service.

VARIED SOCIAL SERVICE

"For instance the delightful garden party to 200 sailors from H.M.S. Titania given by the Sports Section last autumn; the illuminating and idealistic address by Professor Roxby on the education of the Chinese arranged by the Literary Section; the organising of a Needlecraft Section with the object of filling a cupboard with saleable articles in readiness for such demands as may be made against it on behalf of charity.

"Your Executive Committee and Social Service board are represented on a number of local committees which look after various social and philanthropic enterprises in the Settlement, among which are the Y.W.C.A. the Moral Welfare Society, the Joint International Committee formed to enquire into the conditions under which women and children work in factories, the International Relations Joint Committee which has for its object the care and guidance of Chinese girl students who seek their education abroad, and others.

"Among unclassified meetings that have been held must be remembered the joint meeting of American, British and Chinese women which took place at headquarters last autumn to consider whether any steps might be embarked upon in regard to limiting child labor in local industries, Mrs. H. C. Mei being in the chair and Miss Agatha Harrison, a well known authority on factory conditions in England, the principal speaker. Various members of the Executive Committee and others have represented the B.W.A. on a number of outside committees and in connection with one in particular I think members should have some little explanation—I refer to the registration of Chinese servants.

SERVANTS REGISTRATION

"In regard to a matter which has been associated in the public mind with the B. W. A. to some extent, I feel it is right that everyone should know exactly what took place—I refer to the petition in connection with the registration of Chinese servants.

"On December 20 last, a message as conveyed to the Executive Committee from the American Woman's Club asking whether the B. W. A. would join them in the consideration of a scheme for the registration of Chinese servants. It was also intimated that the S. M. C. might be willing to consider the feasibility of conducting a Municipal registry office or employment agency, possibly on somewhat similar lines to that already in existence for chauffeurs.

"On January 18, in response to the enquiry of the American Woman's Club it was decided that three members of the B. W. A. should form a joint-committee with members of the executive of the American Woman's Club and certain well known French ladies. Later on a very representative gathering of women attended a meeting at the house of Dr. Fearn and as a result it was decided that a petition in connection with the registration of servants should in due course be sent to the S. M. C. and that signatures in support of such should be meanwhile collected.

"A large number of persons appearing to support the idea, a copy of the proposed petition was sent to the local press for publication. A somewhat violent opposition ensued both in the press and among the public which was for the most part unquestionably due to a complete misapprehension of the position, many people laboring under the erroneous idea that compulsory registration was urged by the promoters of the scheme. It had been decided to canvass the entire association but before the canvass was complete, in view of unsettled conditions in the South and of the fact that it would be difficult to dispel the idea in people's minds that compulsion was in question, it has been decided that for the present the matter should be left in abeyance.

PLAN RESIDENTIAL HOME

"To revert to the subject of social service, the evolution of the Social Service Board which now meets fortnightly has been of necessity slow. Any work the board may have desired to undertake was at first hampered from want of funds: the method of raising money was too a matter for much consideration and discussion, the undoubted wish being to do so within the Association as far as possible and not to go outside for it. Many schemes have been submitted to the Social Service Board and prolonged have been its deliberations. The Christmas Fair, that enormous undertaking which sprang from such tiny beginnings, was one of the results.

"The primary idea was to acquire such funds as would enable the philanthropic side of the Association to operate in various directions with the especial object of instituting or organising some description of residence to meet the demand for accommodation on the part of women who have no home in Shanghai. Many of you, I know, think that this scheme has been a very long time in materialising. Many investigations have been made and when you consider the variety of circumstances to be taken into account, such as the very great difficulty of obtaining a suitable house in a suitable neighborhood, the uncertainty as to the continuance of the demand for it, the financial liability involved and exactly what class of residence to make it, you must be a little lenient in your criticisms and make all allowances for tangible difficulties in the undertaking on the part of the sub-committee involved.

"The Residential Joint sub-Committee reported that after due consideration it had been decided that it was not feasible at present to combine a residence with headquarters, but that it was desirable to arrange for residential quarters in a rented house as soon as a suitable house could be found. It was also decided that the Association's need for such a house be advertised and that enquiries should be made at this general meeting as to the approximate number of women who would wish to occupy it. It has also been reported that Mrs. Aggasiz had written to express her willingness to act as honorary matron or warden of such residence, the acceptance of which offer the sub-committee strongly supported. We, your out-going executive, are recommending your incoming committee to call a special meeting of all these members interested in this scheme for a B.W.A. residence at the earliest possible date.

SOME FUNDS AVAILABLE

"The Christmas Fair raised considerably more money than was anticipated and setting aside about $2,000 to meet such urgent and immediate calls as may be made upon the Social Service Board, the sum of $12,000 has been definitely allocated to the needs that may arise in the initial expenses of a B. W. A. residence. Furniture, possibly adaptation or reconstruction, etc., would be provided for from such a fund, but the house once open and in view of the fact that it will be conducted on reasonable lines, it is confidently expected that it will be self-supporting—as, of course, it must and should be if our aims are to be carried out.

"To revert once more to the Christmas Fair, I cannot refrain from calling attention to what in my mind was by far the most important feature of the whole affair, and that was the wholehearted harmony with which the sections united in common service. That was one point. The other was the cordial manner in which the suggestion that outside institutions such as the Foreign Women's Home and the Children's Refuge should benefit by our organisation was received by one and all. Then what I am afraid was not so universally appreciated at the time, the collection on behalf of Rheims cathedral which permitted us as British women to link up with what is a national movement at home—the ultimate idea being peace. The question has lately been raised in the press as to whether Shanghai is a selfish place. I think the reply has been demonstrated by our Association—not selfish, a little thoughtless, perhaps, sometimes, but certainly not selfish.

EDUCATIONAL HOPES

"The Social Service Board is greatly to be congratulated upon having organised a Hospitals Aid Department, a development of social service which is a great deal more far reaching, I assure you, than the mere provision of requisites to needy hospitals. On similar lines and even more far reaching it is to be hoped that one of these days steps may be taken towards the linking up of our Association with the great movement now afoot in connection with the education of the Chinese—which I regard as one of the greatest moral responsibilities we sojourners in the Far East must shoulder. I trust sincerely that a greater interest in educational matters may be one of the developments of the board in the future.

"To descend, however, to more immediate issues, the Social Service Board recently contributed $100.00 towards the passage money of a distressed British woman married to a destitute Russian, and lastly, as an expression of their sympathy with and their admiration for the work that is being carried on by the King's Daughters, they have sent a little donation of $100.00 in aid of the King's Daughters Convalescent Home. In connection with social service in the future, there is one side of the B. W. A. that, with increased staff, would well bear development and that is an Employment Agency. As it is quite an appreciable number of our members have obtained positions through introductions given by my own office and by the British Chamber of Commerce. The latter too has asked us to find work for women who have applied to them direct, while the Consul-General now makes a practice of passing on women applicants and applications for positions to the B. W. A. There is a real satisfaction in introducing a suitable applicant to a suitable position.

"Do you remember in the prenatal days of the B. W. A. the castles in the air that were freely built at those preliminary drawing meetings we held? And do you realise that a large proportion of them have already materialised and that the foundations are being steadily laid for others?

THE GARDENING SECTION

"Our eldest child, with 114 members, has unquestionably done excellent work in the diffusion of knowledge by organising lectures and practical demonstrations and by publishing a very useful little manual on local gardening conditions as a result of them. The Gardening Section goes very quietly to work and is not in a position to entertain much in the same way that other sections are. On the other hand, however, it has made what use it can of such social opportunities as have offered. On two public occasions it has provided presentation bouquets and baskets of flowers and (I wonder how many people know of this charming little bit of service!) the Gardening Section, having purchased a number of suitable vases for the purpose, has so organised its members that each one of them supplies and arranges the flowers that are renewed twice a week in all the rooms at headquarters. There is too a movement on foot by which the Section hopes to be allowed to contribute some of the flowers wherewith the King's Daughters decorate certain ward in the local hospitals.

SPORTS SECTION

"The Sports Section was the second to see the light of day and came into being in order to take over all arrangements in connection with the magnificent offer of Mr. and Mrs. Pearce to lend their grounds in Kinchow Road to the Association. This, as everyone knows, gave an immense amount of pleasure to a large number of members for not only did the Section avail themselves of the tennis and golf facilities there but on May 18 entertained over three hundred members of the Association at a garden party, and under these delightful circumstances arranged that the first business meeting of members should at the same time take place. It may here perhaps be pertinent to make some slight reference to that same business meeting. It will be recalled by those who were present that after certain reports passed two important questions were put to the meeting for consideration, (1) Was it the wish of the members to have permanent Headquarters and if so (2) how was it proposed that such should be financed?

"It was unanimously and enthusiastically resolved that headquarters should be established and in reply to the question of finance appeared a desire that in addition to the original $5.00 subscription a further $1.00 a month should be paid by members for the use of headquarters. Subsequently, however, considerable protest against this additional subscription caused the Executive Committee to reconsider the matter with the result that members were asked to pay a voluntary additional subscription on a sliding scale instead. I do not propose here to touch upon the subject of finance beyond this brief reference because the whole subject of finance will be put before you later in a far clearer and more businesslike way than I am capable of putting it.

"To go back to the Sports Section for a moment. The beautiful garden I have referred to was also made use of by the Sports Section for the entertainment of a couple of hundred Bluejackets from H. M. S. "Titania" at a garden party last autumn. To say that this party was a success is scarcely to do it justice. I will tell you the effect it had on a well known Shanghai man. He came up to me at the close of the evening and said "Well, if this is the sort of thing the B. W. A. are going to do, By Jove I'm all for it!" Another tribute came from the sailors themselves—they put it into verse and sang their thanks to the Sports Section at the Titania entertainment in the Lyceum theatre a few evenings later. The Sports Section presented a capital photograph of this Bluejacket party to the B. W. A. and it hangs in the tea room at headquarters.

"The Section has run a most successful Badminton Club during the winter months and soon expects to open their tennis season. One word here to show again the co-operation that exists in the Association. The Sports Section Committee have been at great pains to make early arrangements for tennis courts which it is always very difficult to do. It is hoped that some will be available at the Race Club but these are not allotted for another week or two. Meanwhile four members of the Association have most generously come to the rescue, Mrs. Tisdall, Mrs. March, Mrs. Peebles and Mrs. Billinghurst, and have very kindly offered the use of their private courts for certain days in the week to the Sports Section, an arrangement which, thanks to this truly public spirited action, should prove an admirable one.

LITERARY SECTION

"The Literary Section was the third to be formed and has undoubtedly fulfilled one of our avowed objects. It used in the old days to be a matter of recurring regret to many of us that a number of well known and interesting people flitted through the port with few of us being any the wiser. I feel that we have

Terrible Wound from Abdomen to Hip

Our portrait is of Mrs. M. MACE, of 97, Brettell Lane, Stourbridge, England, who writes:

At length I was persuaded to try 'Clarke's Blood Mixture,' and after taking the first bottle began to see an improvement, which has continued, with the result that my wound is healed, and I now have no pain." In a further recent letter Mrs. Mace writes: "I am happy to say that there has been no recurrence of my complaint and consider my case a very satisfactory cure."

y warmly to congratulate the erary Section, not only on a ies of most interesting and in- uctive papers from its learned mbers, but on the alertness of ir committee in capturing such, usually interesting personage. Miss Power last year and Pro- or Roxby this and on the nerous manner in which they ited the whole membership to et both of these distinguished ucationalists. One can only e the Literary Section to go ead with their excellent work d thank them for what they ve already accomplished for the od of the Association.

MUSICAL SECTION

"The Musical Section and the erary might almost be regard as twins, so nearly do their thdays coincide. The Musical ction started life on April 26 last year and I mention the te because they seem to me to ve accomplished such a great al in so short a time. The lue of the series of meetings ey have maintained at regular tervals during the winter can rdly be overestimated, either om the purely pleasurable point view or from an educational andpoint, while the generosity the Section in the matter of spitality to B.W.A. members aves a very large number of us eply in their debt. There is no me to enumerate the many de- ghtful programs of music given the valuable papers read in nnection with music in this sec- on—it would be invidious to single nt any one occasion for special mment here. It must suffice to cord that there is a fine total meetings to the credit of the ction and to thank as well as congratulate all concerned for eir contribution to the general al of the association. Anyone ho has ever undertaken to make emselves responsible for a con- rt program will appreciate only o well the immense amount of ork and worry involved. It ay, perhaps, be not considered ut of place to note that ap- reciation of this section's work not lacking from outside and hat it has taken the very con- rete form of a piano presented o the Musical Section by a num- er of anonymous subscribers hrough the kind offices of Mr. nd Mrs. Burrett.

ART, DRAMA, SEWING

"The three latest sections to be ormed are the Art, the Dramatic nd the Needlecraft, with an ggregate of 100 members. The Art Section has been xceedingly fortunate in securing a pecialist like Dr. Stafford Cox to ecture to them and to guide their irst studies in Chinese painting, while the "at home" given at the Country club in conjunction with the Literary Section on the occasion of Processor Siren's address on, and an exhibition of rare works of art must be accounted as one of the most successful B.W.A. under- takings, so far recorded.

"The Dramatic Section, in its first youth still, sprang into action with commendable rapidity and gave a most successful entertain- ment to members at headquarters just a month after they had been inaugurated. There seems every reason to predict a brilliant future for this talented and enterprising Section.

"The Needlework is the newest Section to be recorded and with a membership only 25 starts life with high ideals, work at their meetings being destined for sale purposes, for the almost inevitable bazaar which promises to be a hardy annual. A promising Section, this and one with great potentialities for useful- ness.

"Thus the Sections, with a total membership of something near 600, have formed a field for a great variety of activities during the past winter and it was very pleasant to hear a prominent woman, who has scarcely any time at all for the social amenities of the place, say 'The B.W.A. has provided us with a great deal of enjoyment this winter—it has made all the difference to busy women like myself.' I consider that the Committees of Sections may justifiably feel that they have done good work during the past months and they certainly leave a goodly heritage to those who are elected to succeed them.

COMMITTEES WORK

Closely allied to the Sections and forming a very effective mainstay to them is the Entertainment Committee and I have been advised that I need not talk about them for their Hon. Secretary will read her report herself. I must, however, be allowed to admire the excellent manner in which this committee has operat- ed, the smoothness with which its machinery has run at every function at which it has contributed the creature comforts, and generally speaking the thoroughness and efficiency with which its members have done their very important work in maintaining the credit of the Association.

"To the Headquarters Sub-Committee also is a great deal of credit due in regard to the admirable results that have been achieved at 9 Kiukiang Road with what seems to be a ridiculously small outlay of money. It shows what can be done when a number of enterprising and generous women get together, for the greater proportion of the furniture at Headquarters has been given or lent by the members. Headquarters as I said before is essentially homely but a very pleasant little home at that, the weak point about it being that it is nothing like large enough to accommodate its ever increasing family. The Committee in question have been most fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. Spottiswoode with whose advent came a remarkable change in the before-time somewhat chilly tea-room which now seems to me to be a very attractive rendezvous where comfort and restfulness prevail.

"And before I leave the subject of Headquarters I should like to put in a word of appreciation of our popular secretary, Mrs. Cromarty, whose broad sympathies and charming personality have undoubtedly contributed very materially to the very friendly spirit that prevails among those members who make use of the rooms at headquarters. Mrs. Cromarty's work is by no means confined to office hours and it is greatly to be hoped that even if she finds herself obliged to relinquish her secretarial duties she will remain a moving spirit in the Association and the keen member she has been ever since the B. W. A. began work.

ENTERTAINING

"Apart from entertainments given by and within the Association, I should like briefly to review the pleasant links we are forming outside. In our very early days we were greatly encouraged by a most cordial welcome from our sister organisation, the American Woman's Club. Our Executive together with the executive of the Chinese Women's Club were entertained by Mrs. Lobingier, president of the American Woman's Club in May last. The Chinese Women's Club also were "at home" to the B.W.A. executive a little later on and we in our turn have welcomed both the American and Chinese ladies first in our Headquarters on the Bund and latterly at Kiukiang Road. The Literary Department of the American Woman's Club and the Literary and Art Sections of the B.W.A. are also by way of exchanging hospitality.

"The whole Association was entertained by our honorary president at the British Consulate-General on Empire Day last year and quite a number of us accepted with pleasure the invitation to a gymkhana of the Shanghai Scottish when they were in camp last autumn. On this occasion, I am proud to tell you, B. W. A. members maintained quite a good average at the rifle range and one of them, Miss Grant, covered herself and us with glory in making quite a record score.

"This, ladies, concludes what has been, roughly speaking, a sort of diary of the Association's year but before I sit down I should like to be permitted to place on record the thanks of the Association to a number of good friends in the community—to the editors of the local newspapers for the valuable space they have so freely put at our disposal, to the committee of the Country Club for their great kindness in lending us their ball-room from time to time, to all those many friends who co-operated with us in making a success of the Xmas Fair, and lastly to the A.D.C. for their hospitality this afternoon."

Minister Of Justice To War On Peking Grafters

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, March 13.—Minister of Justice Tung Kang has started a drive upon government grafters. Which those who know the facts hope he can finish. First he calls attention of the President of the statutes already existing for the punishment of corrupt officials and then demands authority to enforce them, Mr. Tung Kang long has been noted for his fearlessness and honesty in the enforcement of justice, but thus far he has received little support. His recent appointment as chairman of the Loans Commission has placed him in a better position to take active measures and now he has dropped a bombshell into the Ministry of Finance.

His first "descovery" was that for the last few years "officials in charge of public finance have disregarding the life interest of the Nation, acted solely on the motive of filling their own purse." This is the cause of the entire financial crisis he maintains and adds: 'If this state of affairs is allowed to remain untouched, the danger of the nation will never be removed, no matter how great the increase of the Public Revenue in the future."

STRONGLY ENDORSED

There are many who agree with the Minister of Justice and from the recent inflow of telegrams his stand has been thoroughly endorsed by all parties, including both Wu Pei-fu and Chang Tso-lin. The question of his being able to carry out his program is one which is now seriously affecting the present officials. A publication of the findings of the investigation will arouse great public resentment and the Minister of Justice has been acclaimed as starting the long looked for reform movement.

Mr. Tung Kang states that accounts for expenditures are generally several months old and in many cases have not been sent in for years if at all. He wishes to clear up the situation at once and to deal with the offenders as the law prescribes. It is possible that some of Mr. Tung's friends may be involved and it is freely rumored that warrants may be issued for certain high officials who have only recently left office. It may be remembered that Ex-President Li Yuan-hung once attempted to enforce the law against corrupt public officials and went so far as to arrest the Minister of Communications with his own troops. Unfortunately the Minister was liberated the next day by the Premier and Chief Justice. But Mr. Tung Kang however is going straight ahead. A copy of his petition to the president follows:

"The chaotic condition of the Public Finance extends over a long period. During the last few years, officials in charge of the Public Finance have, disregarding the interests of the Nation, acted solely to fill their own purse. If this state of affairs is allowed to continue, the danger to the Naton will never be removed, no matter how great the increase of the Public revenue.

"The uncovering of evils is both my duty and wish. The Amended Ordinance for the Punishment of Corruption by officials, which was published last year, is severer than the Provisional Criminal Code, though general in its terms but many offenders have escaped the Law simply because due regard has not been given to the interpretation of the spirit of the ordinance.

LISTS "CORRUPTIONS"

Unless the real intention of the ordinance is acted upon, the criminal can not be apprehended. I now ask that if any official in charge of public Finance is found, as a result of one examination, to have practiced any one of the following corruptions, he shall be delivered to the courts to be punished under the ordinance.

"(1) Running a Banking business and speculating against the Ministry of Finance.

"(2) Making usurious loans to the Government from his private fund under the name of business associations.

"(3) Acting as agent in securing loans with the motive of sharing the exchange, commission, or the interest.

"(4) Making, as agent, unnecessary payments and receiving commission by extortion.

"(5) Embezzling by deviating from the regular way of receiving or paying.

"(6) Collecting Treasury Bonds at less than the face value, and offering them for redemption from the actual funds of the Ministry.

"(7) Giving terms of making agreements, unjust to the government, without its consent.

"(8) Substituting good securities for bad loses without the consent of the Government.

"(9) Disposing of Treasury Bonds or other valuable papers without the consent of the Government.

"Furthermore, the accounts sent to the Audit Board are generally matters of years or months old, sometimes even, no accounts being sent at all. One cannot tell if the vouchers accompanying them are genuine, in view of the fact that they are matters years back. A Special Audit Committee should be instituted by the Board to deal with the receipts and payments of money by the Ministry of Finance. If anything contrary to fact, or any of the corruptions summerated above should be found, they should be uncovered at once, and dealt with by the Law, so that the real situation might be made clear."

Lett Found Guilty Of Bicycle Thefts

G. Timaeff, a Lett who only recently got out of jail after serving a sentence for larceny, appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday charged with the theft of three bicycles in the International and French Settlements. The Chinese owners of three bicycle shops appeared to identify the accused and stated that he had hired machines from their shops, later pawning them. Timaeff was found guilty by the court and was ordered handed over to the French authorities for trial for the theft of the bicycle in Frenchtown, after which he will be returned to the International court for sentence there.

ISSUE WARNING TO RESIDENTS AGAINST THIEVES

With burglaries showing an increase in the Settlement during the past few weeks the Police Department again warns residents to take precautions to make entry into their houses difficult. During February there were fifty cases of burglary reported to the police, ten of housebreaking, three of godown breaking and six of office and shop breaking. The police warning to householders is as follows:

Many burglaries are rendered possible by the neglect of householders to take ordinary precautions. In the case of foreign houses entry is commonly made through a verandah window. One method is to open the outer shutters by removing a slat so that an arm can be inserted and the bolts pulled, and then to cut a whole pane of glass out of the window. Another method, when the shutters cannot be opened because the space between them and the window is too small for the arm to be inserted, is to remove a shutter slat, cut a piece of window glass, insert the arm, turn the knob and so open the window. In cases where entry has been effected in one of these ways it is almost always found by the police that one of the bolts, either on the window or the door, has been left unfastened when the house was shut up for the night. This is due to the carelessness of the servant who has not shot the bolt into its socket, or of the householder who has not had the fastenings kept in proper repair.

It is almost impossible to render the ordinary verandah window proof against a determined burglar, but the following measures, if adopted, will make entry more difficult:

1.—Window and shutter fastenings to be kept in good order. Bolts to be kept oiled and sockets well screwed in. Warped shutters, which prevent the bolts being shot home, to be repaired. Servants to be impressed with the importance of properly securing all fastenings at night.

2.—Shutter slats to be closed and properly hooked up or wedged so as to render them immovable from the outside. This makes cutting them out much more difficult and noisy.

3.—A screwed bolt-fastening between window and shutter makes it impossible to open either until the bolt is removed. The latter passes through a hole in the window frame and screws into a socket in the shutter. Its position should be such that a hand inserted from the outside to turn the window handle as described above, cannot reach the bolt head to unscrew it.

Further Hearing In Action Against General Hospital

Hearing of the claim for Tls. 41,386 brought by the Chinese contractor, Wong Kor-sung, against the Shanghai General Hospital was resumed before Judge Peter Grain in the British Supreme Court yesterday, the plaintiff continuing his evidence.

The contractor stated that on September 29, 1920 he wrote to the Hospital with regard to his claim, giving particulars of extra work done. He received no answer and on the 26th of the following February wrote again, still receiving no reply. He wrote again on April 5 and a reply received stated that his account had been handed over to the architects. In reply to Mr. Reader Harris, who with Mr. M Brown appears for the plaintiff, he stated that he received no word from the architects. Some of the orders for extras, he stated were made in writing and some were given verbally. The orders, however, were not signed by Mr. Haise, though this was the agreement.

The case was adjourned at noon until this morning at 10 o'clock.

APPROVE DR. WANG

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, March 12—Various public bodies in Shantung have telegraphed to the Government their approval of the appointment of Dr. C. T. Wang as Director-General of Shantung affairs. A similar telegram was received from General Wu Pei-fu.

Finds $150,000 In A Taxi

SEVERAL months ago Mrs. Charles C. Jagger, of Gary, Ind., found United States Treasury certificates worth $150,000 on the floor of a taxicab. After she reported the finding to the police the Federal authorities took a hand and the bonds were turned over to the Federal Reserve Bank in Chicago. Mrs. Jagger filed suit for the return of the bonds and several other suits have resulted. The Treasury Department has now ordered the bonds turned over to Mrs. Jagger and after the income tax, the Federal inheritance tax, the cost of litigation and other items are subtracted, Mrs. Jagger and her husband will be permitted to enjoy their fortune.

Soldier Bonus Bill Hits Another Snag

(China Press Service)

Washington, March 14.—The plans for the Soldier Bonus were thrown again into uncertainty by the report that speaker Gillette might not entertain the motion to suspend the rules on Monday which require a two thirds vote for the passage of all amendments.

The Ways and Means committee decided to secure an expression of Mr. Gillette's views before "proceeding with the plans." The leaders hoped that the members would receive an expression from President Harding as to whether he would approve of the present measure. They declared that such an expression would greatly clarify the situation.

Chefoo School Has Record Enrollment

(China Press Service)

Chefoo, March 10.—Temple Hill School for Chinese which now includes the Hunter Corbett Academy has the biggest enrollment of students in its history. The Chinese value this fine educational institution highly as it is worked on down to date lines and its graduates are well equipped for a business life or to enter colleges in America. There are not many establishments of the kind in China. It is under the auspices of the American Presbyterian Missionary Society.

Rev. G. Findlay Andrew, O.B.E. missionary author and traveller of the China Inland Mission, has just returned from Kansu where he went last year to undertake relief work in connection with the earthquake. He lectured in the large Chinese Theater to a packed audience, telling the huge audience of his experiences and the ways and means adopted for relief. It was a fascinating story and the lantern slides were graphic.

Reds Advance In Siberian Fighting

(Dalta News Agency)

Chita, March 11.—The communique of the Headquarters of the People's Revolutionary Army dated the 7th instant shows that the offensive of the People's Revolutionary Army is continuing in the direction of Guberovo station on the Ussuri Railway. It is generally believed that Iman station, which is close to the so-called "neutral zone" guarded by Japanese soldiers, will be occupied by the People's Revolutionary Army at the end of the ensuing week.

March 15, 1922

Spot and forward bar silver were each down 1/32d. in London yesterday. The New York price declined to 63⅛ cents, and the London-New York cross rate, after dropping as low as 428, closed at 432½, tendency uncertain.

The only change in the official quotations here this morning was a rise in the Gold dollar rate to 68⅛. The market was very much along yesterday's lines, opening steady and closing firm.

In the early part of the morning business in Sterling was done at 3/3¾ for April-May. Gold dollars were done at 69⅞ for March and 69½ for April. At the close, however, there were sellers of Sterling at 3/1 for March-April and 3/2⅞ for May-June. There were sellers of Gold dollars at the close at 70⅛ for March and 70 for April.

The continent sold a small amount of silver in London yesterday, and the market is reported as closing steady. New York report their market as steady also.

Major Brothers' Meeting

The thirty-second annual general meeting of Major Brothers, Ltd., was held yesterday morning at the offices at 2 Canton Road, Mr. E. C. Pearce presiding. There were also present Messrs. G. Grayrigge, H. Parcell and J. G. Shengle, the total number of shares represented being 2,737.

The notice of the meeting having been read the chairman said:

Gentlemen.—The report and accounts having been in your hands for some time, I will, with your permission, follow the usual procedure and take them as read.

The result of the year's working was quite satisfactory, a profit of Tls. 21,274.38 as against Tls. 10,541.77 for the previous year. The financial position of the company is also better, but until we can materially reduce our overdraft there is little or no prospect of a dividend. The total at credit of profit and loss account is now Tls. 29,016.14 and we propose to transfer Tls. 20,000 to Depreciation Fund, bringing this up to Tls. 50,000 and carrying forward the balance of Tls. 9,016.14. The sales of all our products show a gratifying increase, and to meet this steadily growing demand we have decided, following the advice of our manager, Mr. Shengle, to increase our capacity. This work will be undertaken during the summer months, when we generally close down for the annual overhaul. Steps are being taken to have a sufficient stock of all our manufactures to supply our customers and I feel that these alterations and improvements will be of considerable benefit to the company in the future. As usual, the buildings and machinery have been kept in a good state of repair, cost of same being debited to working account.

Before putting the report and accounts to the meeting, I shall be pleased to answer any questions that may be asked.

The report and accounts having been passed and there being no questions asked, the following resolutions were unanimously approved:

Proposed by Mr. E. C. Pearce and seconded by Mr. G. Grayrigge: "That the report and accounts for the year ended December 31, 1921, together with the recommendation as to appropriation of balance at credit of profit and loss account as presented be accepted."

Proposed by Mr. A. W. Burkill and seconded by Mr. G. Grayrigge: "That Mr. E. C. Pearce be re-elected a director of the company."

Proposed by Mr. E. C. Pearce and seconded by Mr. C. R. Burkill: "That the appointment of Mr. J. C. Shengle as a director of the company be confirmed."

Proposed by Mr. A. W. Burkill and seconded by Mr. W. Odgen: "That Messrs. G. H. and N. Thomson be re-elected auditors to the company."

GORDON-GRANT: On March 15th, 1922, at Holy Trinity Cathedral by The Very Rev. Dean C. J. F. Symons, James Miller Gordon to Ada Hannah, widow of the late P. D. H. Grant formerly of Kobe and Hongkong. 46821 M. 16

Turned Tables

NO sooner did the news that a Conference was to be held at Washington become known some six months ago than the world also learned that Japan had condescendingly opened up negotiations with the Government of the Far Eastern Republic, resulting in the Dairen Conference. Naturally, Japan feared that there might be a possibility of the Siberian issue being raised at Washington, so she hurriedly launched various demands at Dairen, among which the principal one was the commercial agreement. In order to drive these demands home, so to speak, Japan supported the Merkulovo-Kappelite Army in a march against the Chita Forces. This move was well understood by the Chita representatives at Dairen who stuck well to their guns and refused to submit to the Japanese draft of the Commercial agreement.

In the meantime, the Chita Mission at Washington revealed certain documents in connection with Japan's designs upon Siberia and at the same time, the progress of the Dairen Conference and the Japanese demands were regularly and accurately reported to the Washington Conference, so that every move was understood. The result was that Japan, having become a signatory to a pact, which compels her to toe the line together with other countries, accepted the hint to drop the military part of the Siberian adventure. This she did only when the Chita Forces were already marching on Habarovsk and thus she left the Kappel Army to its fate.

Today, the tables are turned. According to a report just received from Dairen (Eastern News Agency) the Chita Forces have already advanced to the vicinity of Spasskoe in the Primaritime Province. Spasskoe-Yevgenefka form the boundaries of the neutral zone fixed by the Japanese Military Authorities, per the Russo-Japanese agreement dated April 29, 1920, and, naturally enough, any advance by the Chita Army further south than that zone would imply an infringement of the agreement, so Doctor Petroff, delegate of the Chita Government at Dairen, called on Mr. Matsushima, representative of the Japanese Government and, durihg a conversation with him, intimated the position of the Chita Army and requested an understanding on the part of Japan with respect to further military operations.

Faithful to Japanese precedent Mr. Matsushima stated that with regard to further activities of the Chita Forces negotiations should be opened between the Chita Government and the Commander of the Japanese contingents at Vladivostok. This is just the old game over again. The Commander of the Japanese contingents at Vladivostok, if approached by the Chita Government, will undoubtedly reply that negotiations must be conducted between Tokio and Moscow, etc.

Doctor Petroff, during his conversation with Mr. Matsushima, also requested him to produce Japan's reply to the draft commercial agreement submitted by the Far Eastern Republic, who in a similar manner, replied that no answer could be given as instructions had not been received from the Foreign Office of Japan.

Throughout all official and diplomatic relations with Japan, be they at Dairen, Washington or even in Tokio, the same procrastinating procedure is observable. The apparent inability to decide any given question on the spot without first having to shift it around the various departments, which eventually all focus into the hands of the Military party, is a national trait of Japan's, but it does not get her any farther.

The Dairen Conference sprung into existence at the initiative of Japan and consequently, it behooves Japan to settle the issue with as much grace her present position and the position which Chita now occupies will permit. Like many similar attempts which Japan has made since she launched her Siberian intervention, the Dairen Conference has proved to be a "faux pas" and she is still further humiliated in her foreign policy. The commercial agreement like innumerable Siberian enterprises which Japan has succeeded in arranging with former Russian owners, awaiting the recognition of the Far Eastern Republic, will all meet the same fate when the Big Four pact brings into operation the agreed policy of equal opportunities for all nations.

FAIRPLAY

Editor: THE CHINA PRESS

Sir: In my letter to you of the 10th instant, I referred solely to the formation of the new society to be known as the "Liga Portuguesa do Extremo-Oriente," and that was in reply to an article on the same subject which you published on the same day. Were it not for that, I would have refrained from coming to the Press.

The following is the closing part of my letter above referred to: "It happens that some of the signers of this circular are British subjects. Consequently, they have no right whatsoever to make any representation to the Home Government (Portugal) with a view to defending our interests and our rights. Any such representation would be false, especially if made in a language NOT OUR OWN, as the one used in the announcement referred to by you, and the good Portuguese citizens living in this Settlement will not have our Government bluffed by members of any other nationality without a strong protest."

This is the point I raised and maintain. Now comes "Fairplay" quite excited and answers me on a different subject altogether, a subject which I have not dreamt of, probably with the intent to deviate me from my own point.

No, "Fairplay," you knock at the wrong door. I invite you to combat my statement, and I ask: Would it, or would it not, be false any representation made to my Government, with a view to defending our (Portuguese) rights, bearing the signatures of British subjects, passing themselves as Portuguese?

The answer is obvious, but "Fairplay" replies me differently. He touches on the subject of the club and other rubbish instead, which have nothing at all to do with my argument. Yet, if he had resorted to the truth, I might have considered his viewpoint. But, statements like his, which are absolutely contrary to the truth, inspire only contempt.

But that is not all. "Fairplay" is in doubt as to whether I have some brains or not. One need not be surprised at hearing that I have, and that they are quite sound and healthy. What I have not is "Mutton brains," which I am afraid "Fairplay" has, for otherwise he would have argued the point raised by me and not a totally different one. I am, etc.,

How To Understand France

It is not the easiest thing in the world for people unfamiliar with the economic conditions prevailing in France and in Germany, and uninformed as to the relative measure of loss and the comparative deprivation suffered by the people of these two countries to comprehend precisely the present temper of the French, says the Christian Science Monitor.

The press of the world outside of France is manifesting a tendency to charge upon the people of that sorely burdened nation qualities of greed and rapacity, of vengefulness and malignant hatred for Germany which, if they indeed were characteristic of the French, would merit only the most vigorous reprobation. But if the world could put itself in the place of France, if it could see French conditions as they are, and German conditions as they are there might be a very much wider measure of charitableness in its judgment of the French attitude today.

Under such conditions we might understand the tenacity with which the French delegates at Washington and the French spokesmen at all international conferences insist upon the literal enforcement of the conditions of the Versailles treaty as the condition precedent to their embarking upon any new form of international agreement whatsoever.

The well-known French paper L'Echo de Paris recently printed the following comparison between the present economic conditions of France and those of Germany. In this compilation German marks are reduced to French francs at the rate of ten marks to a franc. At present the rate of exchange is even less favorable to the German showing. In the French figures are included Algiers, and the French coal production comprehends also that of the Saar valley.

FRANCE
Population	40,000,000
Foreign debt	35,000,000,000 francs gold
Domestic debt	230,000,000,000 francs paper
Devastated territory 10 departments
Railway rates	Tripled
Per capita tax	560 francs
Price of coal	70 to 100 francs
Revenue from liquor	1,786,000,000 francs
Revenue from tobacco	820,000,000 francs
Paper money circulation	36,500,000,000 francs
Budget 1922	25,000,000,000 francs
Coal mined	34,000,000 tons

GERMANY
Population	60,000,000
Foreign debt	3,000,000,000 francs gold
Domestic debt	32,000,000,000 francs paper
Devastated territory	None
Railway rates	Less than one-half those of France
Per capita tax	152 francs
Price of coal	25 to 43 francs
Revenue from liquor	408,000,000 francs
Revenue from tobacco	408,000,000 francs
Paper money circulation	12,400,000,000 francs
Budget 1922	11,400,000,000 francs
Coal mined	120,000,000 tons

Before giving currency to this compilaton of comparative figures The Christian Science Monitor caused it to be submitted for approval to very distinguished representatives of the French and the German governments in New York and in Washington. They declare that the figures are essentially correct.

It is impossible to consider this statement of the economic conditions of the two countries without understanding that France, though victorious in the war, has been the greater sufferer. Though her arms were triumphant she has narrowly escaped destruction so far as finance, commerce and industry are concerned.

How can the French be accused of playing the part of Shylock in insisting upon the literal enforcement of the German reparations in the face of these figures? Germany pleading inability to pay could multiply her revenues from liquor six times and from tobacco three times if she but chose to tax these articles proportionately as they are taxed in France. Doubtless it would be better to abolish both, but since neither nation has yet risen to the point of recognising the moral and economic injury done its people by the liquor or tobacco habits, the part they play in raising revenue must be taken into account.

When a Frenchman hears continually through his press that his foreign debt is thirty-five billions sold as against Germany's three billions, and two hundred and thirty billions paper as against Germany's thirty-two billions paper he finds it hard to look with toleration upon the sentimental plea of other nations that Germany should be allowed to withhold the payment of her reparation to France.

When he recalls that ten departments of France were devastated much of the country entirely beyond restoration, while Germany has no devastated territory, he naturally wonders why the payment of reparations for these injuries should be looked upon by so large a part of the world as a cruel exaction.

It is just as well that men who are fortunate enough to be unaffected in their immediate concerns by this controversy should study and give thoughtful consideration to such figures as these. They may not demonstrate that Germany out of the wreck of its political organisation, the destruction of its currency and the unsettling of its industry will be able to pay the full measure of reparation exacted at Versailles. They most emphatically do, however, explain the French attitude of insistence upon the letter of that deed and go far toward excusing that attitude.

Birth Made Easy By The Use Of Gas

BY EMANIE N. SACHS

The doctor sat in a big chair back of a mahogany desk, and his nervous fingers fretted with a bronze paperweight.

"You want to know about the use of laughing gas during childbirth?" he asked, "and you've promised that my name will not be printed?"

"Well, it is not new, you know, the use of so-called laughing gas, or nitrous oxide, during labor. As a matter of fact, Klikowitsh of Petrograd used it in twenty-five cases in 1880. It has been used in dentistry for some time, but it has only gradually come into general use in obstetrics. I am not at all certain that it is in general usage even now. Twilight sleep came along with its poetical name and its alluring promises. Eager women seized upon it. In some cases it seized upon them and their infants. It is a potent, dangerous drug. Successful under ideal conditions, but ideal conditions are dismally rare. However, women began to clamor for relief. The use of anesthetics increased and is increasing.

Complete Anesthesia Harmful

"Ether is not evanescent enough. It has unpleasant after-effects, and should not be given for a prolonged period. Of course, an operative case creates a different situation. There ether may be necessary. Chloroform sends the patient into complete unconsciousness. Labor pains are diminished and the function stopped. The entire enterprise is delayed. Not only is that the physical effect of both ether and chloroform, but there is a psychic effect. The patient's morale is lowered. She is not so inclined to help the physician. Laughing gas is immeasurably superior. It is evanescent. Kemp found that 20 percent remaining in the blood after administration was reduced in two minutes to 6.09 percent. The pains are not stopped nor are the the uterine contractions which are the motor power for the birth of the child lessened. The woman has her intelligence left, but the edge of the pain is removed. I can say more than that. It is exactly comparable to having a tooth pulled under gas. The woman has no more consciousness of pain than the person in a dentist's chair who may know that there are instruments in his vicinity, but who sinks almost into oblivion when the yank comes. I can conservatively say that the use of laughing gas renders childbirth practically painless."

"This sounds like a cruel question but I want to get your answer. Does the bearing of intense pain such as women have endured for so long have a bad effect on the woman physiologically."

"Yes and no," he answered. "The modern woman, of course, is much more highly organised nervously than her mother and her grandmother. Worry destroys some of the resistance.

"It is said that labor pains are soon forgotten. The average woman does not forget them. If she has more children it is under protest. However, I cannot say that there is any definite ill effect from the pain attendant on a normal delivery. I cannot say it definitely, but there are statistics showing that maternal mortality increases in ratio with the longer duration of the woman's sufferings. I have a colleague who goes further than I. He says that the use of nitrous oxide, or laughing gas, not only brings relief to the patient, but that it shortens the duration of labor, permits the doctor to manipulate the child more satisfactorily, saves the tissues of the mother and hastens convalescence."

Patient Can Give Herself Gas

"Must there be an expert anesthetist on hand during the administration of laughing gas?"

"There is a question for which there are several answers. With an expert anesthetist the birth can be absolutely painless. But there is the problem of the increased liability to use instruments, because the mother being completely unconscious is of no help. The expert mixes the gas with oxygen, which makes it more pleasant. Personally, if my patient is fairly intelligent I let her give it to herself."

"But it is necessary for a doctor to be on the premises at least. Some of my colleagues differ there, believing that the presence of a trained nurse is sufficient. Others even permit a member of the family to turn the plug on the gas tank.

"Have you ever seen a gas tank? Usually one to four tanks are provided on a portable platform about the size of a standard weighing scale. A flexible rubber pipe leads into a rubber bag resembling a football, and a smaller tube empties into an almond shaped mask which fits over the nose and mouth. The patient feels the pain coming before it really hurts. She places the mask over her face, takes four or five deep respirations and escapes the suffering. It works automatically. She doesn't get too much, because as soon as she is under the influence of the gas her hand relaxes and the mask drops. You know that labor pains usually come more or less rhythmically. One-half hour apart at first, increasing to every five minutes, every two minutes, and so on. For the last stage, the actual birth of the child, we all use a few whiffs of ether, a complete anesthesia."

"Then the patient anesthetises herself for each pain, with a lapse to consciousness in between?"

"Yes, the begins to come to as soon as the mask drops. The relief has an excellent effect on her morale. She feels that something is being done for her, that she is, in fact, helping herself. She is often willing to stand a few pains in between. You have no idea of the frenzy of pain into which women have at times been plunged. They don't know what they are doing."

"Well, if it's a benevolent agent, why is it not used always?"

"There's a question. The first answer is that the medical profession is the most conservative of bodies. The second answer is concerned with economics. I told you that I believe that a doctor must be present while the gas is in use, which is for the duration of ten or twelve hours possibly—used periodically, remember. And remember also that some of my colleagues do not agree with me on that point. I have a wife and four children to support. I am an attending physician at three hospitals. If I stayed ten or twelve hours with each patient I could not make a living for my family unless I charged a fee far beyond the means of the average person. The presence of a professional anesthetist would, of course, mak my presence unnecessary until the very last stage, but it would add materially to the cost as far as the patient was concerned."

"But in the hospitals and in the free wards?"

"If the hospitals are organised to give this service, it can be practically managed there, both for private patients and in the free wards. There are always resident anesthetists who give far more dangerous drugs, ether and chloroform. There are nurses on duty to watch the hearts, in any case. The only additional cost to the hospital would be the actual cost of the gas itself."

"The point, of course, is the time element. The gas is given intermittently for four or ten hours sometimes, I think a rough estimate might indicate that it would cost about $10 for each patient if given nine or ten hours. This means the actual cost of the laughing gas. Of course, if we gave it to each woman in a hospital I know, where we confine about 2,500 women a year, that would add $25,000 to our annual budget."

"A twenty-five-thousand-dollar addition to an annual hospital budget is not to be lightly undertaken, I am afraid," he said gravely, "but when women clamor more and more for relief I am in hopes that the time will come eventually when relief will be freely offered them."

Why Not Use Gravity?

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

A curious and very unusual question is the following, received from a New Jersey correspondent:

"Why has the force of gravitation never been harnessed to work? I understand we call gravitation a force, and man has contrived many devices to overcome this force, but none to utilise it. Is there an insurmountable obstacle so that it is impossible to use the so-called 'gravitation' as a motive power?"

Many readers will probably immediately say: "Doesn't he know that gravitation is everywhere and continually utilised to drive many different kinds of machines?"

I have no doubt that he does know it, but, as I shall point out in a moment, there is a different aspect of the matter which must be that which he takes, and it will be very interesting to consider the reason why the force of gravitation, as viewed from the point that my correspondent evidently has in mind, is not and probably never will be effectively utilised for mechanical purposes.

In its ordinary aspect gravity (the earth's gravitation) is man's constant and, one might say, willing servant, and he uses it in many ways. A water wheel is a gravity machine. Gravity is necessarily utilised wherever water power is employed. An automobile skimming down hill with power shut off is driven by gravity. Gravity saves many a dollar to the railroads by furnishing free power on down slopes, though it costs them as much, on the whole, and perhaps more, when the slopes are rising.

GRAVITY DOES MANY THINGS

Gravity drives, clocks and impels piledrivers. Looked at a little more analytically, gravity makes balloons rise and is an essential agent in keeping aeroplanes in motion. In fact, no machine is ever made without some reference to gravity, and in many cases it is really the sole motive power employed. Among all the forces of nature gravity is the one most lavishly placed at man's disposal. He even walks by virtue of the force of gravity, for walking and running consist of a series of falls and recoveries, and a man gets tired with too long walking because his muscles cannot endlessly hold the pace with their tireless yokemate. In all these cases, however, the force that we utilise acts toward the center of the earth.

But as I have said, there is another way to look at the matter, which is doubtless that which the correspondent in New Jersey is thinking of. What he would wish to do is to utilise gravitation independently of the earth. He says, "Gravitation is a force; then why can't we harness it to work as we harness steam, for instance?" Apparently he is misled by the familiar definition of gravitation which tells us that it acts between every particle of matter in the universe and is not to be screened off by anything interposed. Perhaps he is thinking of the many ways in which we utilise a far less extended force of attraction, viz., magnetism.

But he neglects a most important, a capital and deciding factor. Gravitation in itself is an exceedingly slight force, which seems great only when exercised between very great masses of matter, or by a very great mass upon smaller bodies, as happens with the earth and the things on its surface.

WHEN FORCE IS DISPELLED

This is often a matter of great astonishment to those woo are unfamiliar with the science of physics. Accustomed to hear and read of the giant's grip with which the sun holds and controls the earth and its other planets, at distances of hundreds of millions of miles, and recalling that Newton founded the law of gravitation upon the fact that the earth, by this force, masters the moon and imprisons it in an orbit, a quarter of a million of miles away, they quite naturally think of gravitation as a stupendously great force instead of as a very slight one.

But ponder a moment on such an experiment as this: Take a small magnet and hold it over a needle lying on a table. Gravity is holding the needle down—the whole gravitative force of the earth—yet when the little magnet is brought near, the needle leaps to its embrace, defying the mighty planet! The comparison is not in all respects a fair one, but it does show that, for our purposes, magnetism is an enormously greater force than gravitation.

In fact, gravitation does not become powerful enough to be of mechanical use until the mass of matter concerned is immensely great. Suppose you tried to make a machine to utilise gravitation independent of the attraction of the earth. Gravity is only manifested between masses of matter, is only measured by the amount of those masses, and varies inversely with the square of the distance between them. It would be this force acting between masses that you would have to employ. But do you know how large the masses would have to be if they were to afford you even the slightest degree of mechanical power?

If they were as big as mountains you could hardly run a paper pin-wheel by their gravitation! The "constant of gravitation" is a force so small that it amounts to only one fifteen-millionth of a dyne, and a dyne is only the force required to give one gram of matter a velocity of one centimeter per second by acting upon it during one second of time.

Anybody who wishes to make gravitation his slave must be able to handle planets as easily as billiard balls.

What School Should Mean To Pupils' Parents

BY WILLIAM A. McKEEVER

What does school mean to average American father and mother? Does it mean society, a preparation for society, or do you regard it as a part of society?

I find that these are the three distinctive conceptions of the public school as regarded by ordinary parents and teachers.

In an instance of the first class we find that the school is often run exclusively by the superintendent. The merchants and tradesmen go on with their business; the women attend to their households and their social interests. Excepting for the small classroom gossip which the children bring home, this exclusive one-man type of school is as little known to the common parents as if it were located outside the home district. Asked as to its status, they are accustomed to boast vaguely about their "splendid school" and its "excellent corps of teachers."

Now, the public school which is not carefully watched and constantly attended to by its patrons is practically certain to become an isolated, time-serving memory system. It smacks of the old idea of "culture for its own sake," where there is learning of things which serve to make one "smart, refined and attractive" at a social affair. Strange to say, there are still many instances of this old classical type of school among us.

The school which proceeds under the motto of "preparation for society is usually serious, stern and matter-of-fact in its methods. Under its definition the pupils have not arrived anywhere as yet, but some day they must step out of school into society and life will begin in earnest. The usual faults here include over-emphasis of competition.

Be quick, master your lessons, for some time in the future you will have to struggle against strong competition for place, preferment and success in life.

This second type of school tends to create the adult grafter and political boss.

The third type of institution, and the only commendable one, is the school as a part of society. Under its methods the boys and girls are regarded as having already "arrived" and they are made eager participants of the living society of today.

They observe and discuss current events; they regard history as in the making; they are taught to appreciate alike all the useful arts and crafts; they are taught to regard clean games and athletics as essential parts of a modern school program; they are given opportunities for guarded social experience and religion, with the idea that these matters are essential to well-rounded character.

But the basic assurance of the modern type of public school is the constant association of the patrons therewith. So my first question as a visitor is not "What are the pupils doing?" but "What are the parents doing?" Are they studying child life at their own assemblies? Are they affiliated with the school as workers for the common progress of the children? Do they stand with the management of the school for a progressive course of study, for democracy of the daily behavior of the children, for vocationalising elements of instructions for all; for a clean moral and spiritual environment?

Thus we observe that under ideal conditions of management the school is not only a part of society, but society is also partly in the school.
